MORTGAGE TAXATION

During the last three years the state of New York has lived under three different laws for the taxation of mortgages. In the state of Massachusetts mortgages have been entirely exempt from taxation since 1881. Berkshire county, Massachusetts, extends from north to south the entire width of the state, and borders on Dutchess, Columbia and Rensselaer counties in the state of New York. The mortgage records for 1904 and 1905 for Berkshire county, Mass., and the statistics of the mortgage record of those counties were collected. Similar statistics were obtained from the city of Boston and the city of New York for comparison.

Prior to July 1, 1905, debts secured by mortgages on real estate were taxable in New York in the same manner as any other personal property. That is to say, that each person was liable to be assessed for all taxable personal property owned by him in excess of his debts. Although no very great effort was made in most parts of the state to assess persons who owed mortgages, the fear of taxation deterred many from lending locally on mortgage security with the result that the rate of interest on mortgages was increased by from six to six and one-half per cent.

In 1905 a law was passed designed to correct the gross inequality and injustice of the inclusion of mortgages as ordinary taxable property. By this law all mortgages recorded on or after July 1, 1905, were made taxable without any deduction for debt, and without regard to the residence of the owner, at the rate of one-half of one per cent per annum.

This law was opposed by those who predicted that a uniform tax on all mortgages would raise the rate of interest and the tax would thus fall wholly on borrowers. It was predicted also that the amount of money offered for loans secured by mortgage would be reduced. This is exactly what happened, as will more fully appear in the following table:

AVERAGE RATE OF INTEREST.
July 1 to December 31.
New York county.....	5.20 5.64
Kings county.....	5.28 5.64
Dutchess county.....	5.21 5.64
Columbia county.....	5.27 5.64
Rensselaer county.....	5.24 5.64
Massachusetts.....
Berkshire county.....	5.03 5.03
Boston.....	5.09 5.07

New York Loans.

From July 1 to Dec. 31, 1904.....$174,315,915
From Jan. 1 to June 30, 1905.....$13,525,137
From July 1 to Dec. 31, 1905.....$10,153,233

It will be observed that the rate of interest did not rise in New York by quite a full half per cent. This was because the interest rate in New York, prior to the 1905 law, was somewhat lower than the rate of interest in Massachusetts.

In 1905 the law was so amended as to provide for one single tax at that time of record, imposed on all mortgages recorded on or after July 1, 1905. All mortgages made on and after that date have been liable to a single recording tax of one-half of one per cent, and are thereafter exempt from all other taxation. The effect of this change in the law immediately appeared both in the decline in the rate of interest and in the increase in the amount of money loaned. I present the figures for the first six months of the operation of the new law in New York county and the figures for the corresponding period of 1905 for comparison:

Money	Rate
July 1 to Dec. 31, 1905.....$101,153,233	5.04
July 1 to Dec. 31, 1904.....$174,315,915	5.18

During the last six months of 1905 a mortgage for $100,000.00 at 4 1/2 per cent was recorded, but this is not included in the above amount nor in the computation of the rate of interest.

All these statistics were made up in the following way: The total amount of mortgages recorded at each rate of interest was separately stated and the interest computed at that rate. The total interest charges on all the mortgages was computed and then divided by the amount of money loaned. These statistics abundantly prove that every obstacle placed between the borrower and lender of money, and any burden placed upon the transaction must fall ultimately upon the borrower of money.

The old law in the state of New York was most unjust to those dependent upon estates in trust, because trustees were limited in their investments to mortgages on real estate, and nominally all such estates were fully assessed and taxed. It was common for one-half of the income of a trust estate to be consumed by taxation. The annual mortgage tax law of 1905 relieved lenders of this fearful burden, but it imposed a certain charge of one-half of 1 per cent on borrowers. In addition to the economic rate of interest.

While the present recording law is not theoretically just because it imposes some additional burden on those who borrow, it is infinitely to be preferred to the greater burden of the annual tax, or to the burden on borrowers imposed by the liability of mortgages to taxation as personal property, and the awful injustices to such lenders, chiefly widows and orphans, who were caught with mortgages in their possession, and suffered the confiscation of a large share of their income.

The revenue from the recording tax during the first six months amounted to $2,525,417.

LAWSON PURDY,
President, Department Taxes and Assessments, City of New York.

Notices.—Ohio readers of the above article will find in it a practical and substantial reason why they should work for an amendment to the Ohio constitution that will make it possible for the people of Ohio, especially borrowers of money, to enjoy the advantages New York is obtaining from its mortgage recording law.

BARNUM & BAILEY SHOW.

MANY LOCAL PEOPLE ARRANGING TO VISIT THE FAMOUS GREATEST SHOW ON EARTH.
The Barnum & Bailey Greatest Show on Earth exhibits at Springfield, O., May 8th, Dayton, O., May 9th.

The railroads have made announcement of reduced rates and already numerous circus parties have arranged. Especial interest attached to the Barnum & Bailey show-day this year, not only because of the popular belief that it is the largest combined circus, menagerie and hippodrome in the world.

Probably the most remarkable of the new acts is the thrilling feat of Capt. Carl Hovewasen, who sails fifty feet through the air mounted on eight-foot skates. Another startling act that has created comment and wonder, is known as the "Dip of Death." In this starting a heavy road car flies forty feet through space, with machine and driver actually upside-down.

The performance opens with a gorgeous spectacle entitled "Pence." It is founded upon the Russo-Japanese war, and describes, in an allegorical way, the President's successful efforts to bring peace between the warring armies in the East. The circus performance follows. There are three rings, two stages, a quarter-mile hippodrome track and a series of immense aerial spaces, and all are utilized by the 300 European and American artists in the circus company. The sensational features are interspersed throughout the arena program.

The zoological display, which forms a vestibule for the main exhibition, is declared to be especially notable this year from the fact that it serves to display a remarkable head of giraffe, the only hi-horned rhinoceros in the United States, and many other rare animals, together with herds of trained elephants and hundreds of other interesting wild beasts.

Thedford's Black-Draught comes nearer regulating the entire system and keeping the body in health than any other medicine made. It is always ready in any emergency to treat ailments that are frequent in any family, such as indigestion, biliousness, colds, diarrhoea, and stomach aches.

Thedford's Black-Draught is the standard, never-failing remedy for stomach, bowel, liver and kidney troubles. It is a cure for the domestic ills which frequently summon the doctor. It is as good for children as it is for grown persons. A dose of this medicine every day will soon cure the most obstinate case of dyspepsia or constipation, and when taken as directed it brings quick relief.

DAVIDSON, J. L., Dec. 31, 1904.

Thedford's Black-Draught has been our family doctor for five years and we want to say that we are all right in twelve hours. We have some lot of money for doctor bills, but we are now as well as ever. H. H. RADWIN.

Ask your dealer for a package of Thedford's Black-Draught and if it does not help it send it to The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., and a package will be mailed to you.

THE GREAT FAMILY MEDICINE.
